

PROTEST CALFEE'S RIGHT TO PLAY ON MEDICAL COLLEGE

University College of Medicine Declared That He Wasn't Fairly Eligible.

NEITHER SIDE COULD SCORE

Medicos Fight Desperately for Gridiron Supremacy, But Made No Progress.

Though struggling desperately for gridiron supremacy, neither eleven was able to score yesterday in the game between the University College of Medicine and the Medical College of Virginia. The constant line-smashing of the latter could not gain over the ability of the former to put up a strong defense at the critical moment, and to handle successfully trick formations. The teams were not in the pink of football training, but held out unusually well, not a single player being removed from the contest, though it was a grueling fight from beginning to end.

Just before the whistle of the referee blew for the start of the game, Manager W. B. Lawson, Jr., of the University Medical College team, called out the manager of the rival team, together with Calfee, the hefty left tackle of the Medical College, and entered a protest against the playing of Calfee. Despite this, the old Virginia star, who recently figured in the athletic world on account of his taking part in the Virginia-Navy game after he had been enrolled at the Medical College here, played in the contest, and was a veritable battering-ram on the offense and a valuable man at all times.

Protest Against Calfee.
The written protest was as follows: "We hereby protest against participation by Mr. Calfee in the game to be played to-day, on the ground that he has played this season with the following teams: The Tigers (Richmond), against Randolph-Macon College; the Medical College of Virginia, against William and Mary College, and the University of Virginia, against the Navy. We do not deny that Mr. Calfee is a marvellous student at the Medical College of Virginia, but we do deny his eligibility to represent you against us in view of the varied athletic relations he has sustained during the present season, and the fact that he has represented the University of Virginia more recently than the Medical College of Virginia."

Manager Lawson declared that if the protest were not acted upon favorably, in all probability athletic relations between the two medical colleges in Richmond would be severed at once, but that if Calfee were declared ineligible another game would take place at once to decide the championship. Owing to the fact that the two colleges are under no formal athletic agreement or association, no technical violation took place when Calfee entered the game, and the question will have to be decided on considerations other than those under rules. Hard-Fought Game.

The University College kicked off, and the Medical College drove through the line for several successive gains, finally being forced to punt. The University College took it in and tried to cut through the line, but, failing, punted down to the forty-five-yard line toward the rival team, succeeding in getting hold of it there again. A forward pass worked well for fifteen yards, then the new college punted again.

Virginia drove through the line again, but had to kick. The new college worked over the forward pass, punted, recovered on a fumble, gained ten yards on a penalty to the old college for offense; then tried a forward pass, but sent it into the arms of an opponent, and the old college went down toward the rival goal, only to be driven back finally into its own territory. The half ended with the ball in midfield, both sides having been in danger at several periods of the game.

In the second half the Medical College of Virginia kicked off, and the University College gained heavily, losing the ball on an unsuccessful try at a forward pass. The ball going over, the old college was forced to punt. The new college lost on line attack, and on the Virginia-Navy game after he had been enrolled at the Medical College here, played in the contest, and was a veritable battering-ram on the offense and a valuable man at all times.

How They Lined Up.
The line-up was:

VIRGINIANS ARE LITTLE UNEASY

Georgetown's Great Showing Against Fordham Puts Team on Its Mettle.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., November 4.—Georgetown's superb showing in the contest with Fordham has caused a little uneasiness in Virginia's football camp, and there will be plenty of work for the members of the Orange and Blue variety for the next week.

Play V. H. Saturday.
Saturday's contest with the Virginia Military Institute will be the last game of the season on Lambeth Field, and a large crowd of undergraduates is expected out to cheer the varsity on to victory, and show the man that all are right behind them for their strenuous games with Georgetown and North Carolina.

L. Branch Johnson, B. L. '04, of Norfolk, is expected here to-morrow to assist Coaches Neff and Crawford, who have been in the Southern tackle for three years while playing on Virginia, and is considered one of the best line-men ever developed in the South. The line-men will no doubt profit greatly under his capable instruction. Interest of the undergraduates will be centered on the game with Georgetown, which will be played in Washington on November 13. From now on the effort of the coaches will be bent to train the team to play the Georgetown game, and nothing will be spared to have the men go into that game in the very best of condition.

At present nothing definite can be made in the way of predictions. The two teams have once played the same eleven, and but little can be gathered from their records. The contest will certainly be no cinch one way or the other, and a hard-fought gridiron battle is expected when the two aggregations come together.

Large Crowd Going.
It is expected that a large number of students will accompany the team to Washington. Last year about 500 men went to the capital city and the game was the greatest battle that has ever been played in the South. This year it is expected that the number of supporters of the University of Virginia that will be in Washington will be even greater, and the number will probably go over the 600 mark. Special trains will be run over the Southern and Chesapeake and Ohio Railways.

CLEMSON COLLEGE WINS FROM UNIVERSITY OF S. C.

COLUMBIA, S. C., November 4.—Clemson College to-day defeated the University of South Carolina by a score of 6 to 0 in a football game played at the stadium here. The only score came late in the first half, when, following a brilliant end run by Hinkel, right end of Clemson, Robb took the ball over and White kicked goal. Carolina, though outplayed, proved surprisingly strong, holding the Tigers for some time after time.

This is the first time Clemson and Carolina have met since 1902, when the latter won, 12 to 0.

Turkman Out of Danger.
NEW YORK, November 4.—R. L. Thomas, the Kentucky turkman, who was attacked by Jockey Carroll Schilling at Sheephead Bay, last Sunday, is now out of danger. His physician, Dr. Frank M. Lyne, said to-night that his patient is still weak, but will be up within a fortnight.

TARHEEL ELEVEN IS HOPEFUL OF VICTORY

Team Knows What It Is Against, and is Working Hard and Will Fight to Win Game With V. P. I.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
CHAPEL HILL, N. C., November 4.—The annual Carolina-V. P. I. game will be played Saturday in Richmond. In past years Carolina has defeated V. P. I. and has played several successive 0 to 0 games, but of recent years has lost to the Virginians. Last year V. P. I. defeated Carolina by the score of 10 to 0. This year V. P. I. with the exception of the all-claim team of 1908, composed of Campbell, Bell, and others, has perhaps the strongest team in its history. This fall it has defeated Clemson, held Princeton 0 to 0, and overpowered the strong Washington and Lee eleven by the unexpected score of 34 to 0. Carolina, on the other hand, has lost to Virginia, Richmond College, and lost to V. M. I. by the doubtful score of 23 to 0. The expectation of that game Carolina's goal line or goal bar has not been crossed this season.

With stronger team work and with the recovery of several disabled players the outlook is bright for a close score Saturday. Three of the men who have not been in a game for almost a month may perhaps be in this game. Captain Garrett is on the field again, but has not yet made the scrimmage yet. Rutin is watching the plays from the sidelines, and will be in shape in two or three days. J. Williams is still disabled with a bad ankle, but F. Williams will be in the scrimmage to-day. Clillet got back into the game Saturday and ran the team well at quarter back.

The quarter back for the V. P. I. game will be Rutin, Bell, or Bell. The backfield will be Croswell, Porter, Belden or Rutin. With a full line-up in this game Carolina will attempt to reduce a heavy score, but to fight to win.

to fail, in which event the very dry ground will operate disadvantageously to successful trials, as the scent will be hard to follow.

The majority of the exhibitors reached Shadwell this afternoon. The trials will start to-morrow morning. The day will be given up to the packs of eight. On Saturday the packs of four will be run. On Sunday the bench show will be held, and beginning Monday the races will be run.

Entry List.
The entries include William G. Rockefeller, A. L. Burden, George B. Post, Jr., Winfield Schley, Harry Payne Whitney, Dr. H. Dickson Bruns, James W. Appleton, Dudley Riggs, Chesterwood, Smith, Ramsay Turnbull and many others. The judges are Dr. Ernest L. Jones, of Culpeper, Va., and James P. Van Dyke, of Sunbury, Pa.

William G. Rockefeller, of New York, is president of the club, and James W. Appleton, of A. S. Hamilton, N. Y., and T. Dudley Riggs are vice-presidents; Charles R. Stevenson, of Camden, N. J., is secretary and treasurer.

through it all there appeared the beautiful home life of the family, so characteristic of this wonderful people.

It is very rare that so good a company appears at a single public event. It is a strong actor—a thoroughly capable one—but he did not at all outshine his company, every one of them having a convincing performance. The crochety old grandfather was skilfully and amusingly played by Samuel Tomberg; his wife, the old lady, was sympathetically portrayed by Mrs. Wilemsky; the little Miss Adler was literally charming; Mrs. Adler, Blum, and more than a score of the others of the unusually small cast were competent and capable players.

Altogether it was a glad thing that he saw "The Stranger." W. D. G.
